IAHR SPONSOR MEMBER SYSTEM

In addition to the institute membership category offered to universities and non-commercial organisations, IAHR now offers a “sponsor member” category superimposed on our institute member system which is specifically designed for more commercially-oriented organisations. Sponsor members are offered all the institute member benefits as base benefits, but in addition receive a range of other benefits relevant to a business relating to visibility, prestige and marketing.

IAHR Sponsor Member is available at three levels which provide the following benefits:

:: Sponsor Member – Silver

- Full IAHR Institute membership including all member benefits of institute members¹(see Annex). Some or all of these benefits can be reassigned to a local university
- Dedicated web page description of services (and products) in IAHR website
- Unlimited registration of staff as experts in IAHR expertise directory
- Unlimited entries in suppliers directory
- Discounted exhibitor stand rates for IAHR Congresses
- Editorial Article in Hydrolink (electronic version and 50 free print copies of articles with Hydrolink cover)
- Innovation supporter “recognition mark”
- Entry one page in IAHR Directory
- Free insert mailing service

¹ Sponsor Members may if they so wish reassign some or all of the Institute Member benefits to a local university.

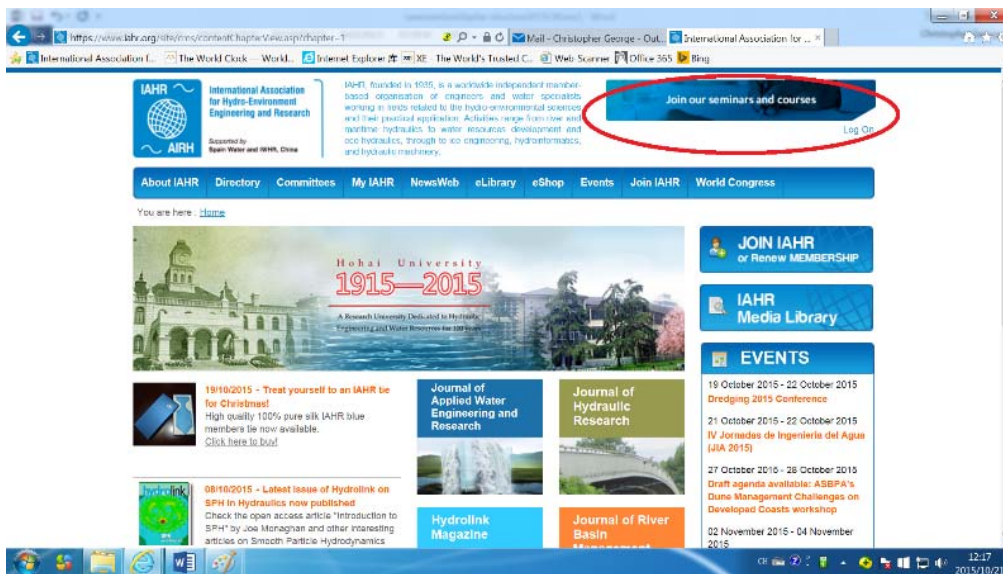

:: Sponsor Member - Gold

Includes all silver sponsor benefits plus:

- Free half page advert (2 per year) or two quarter page ads (4 per year) in IAHR Hydrolink magazine
- Award of one “Significant Achievement” certificate for employees per year (see Annex)
- One free banner ad in monthly NewsFlash and website (revolving) (see example below)
- High level visibility in the IAHR website (home page and directory and public members page)

Example of Visibility in Website:

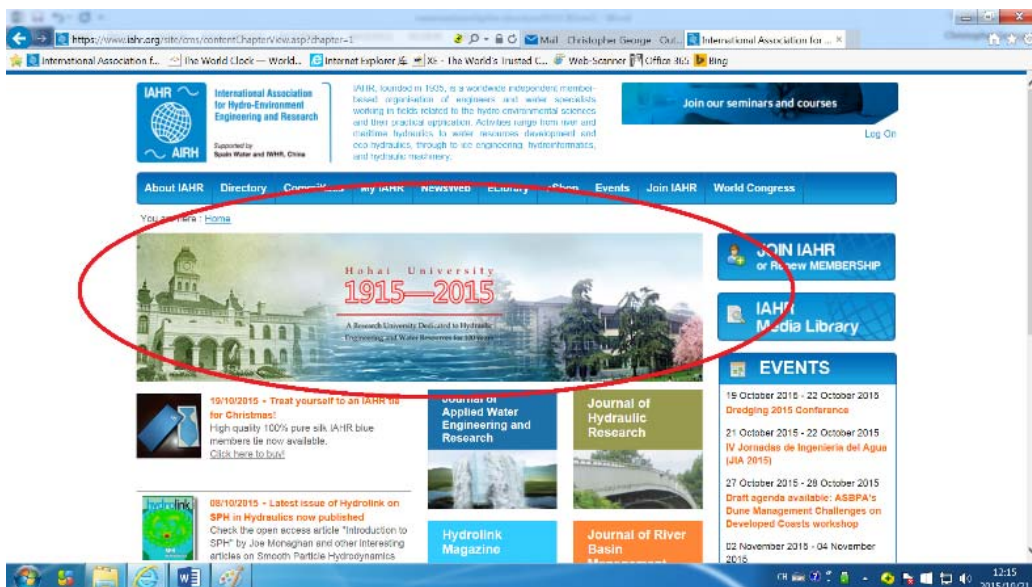

:: Sponsor Member - Platinum

:: Sponsor Member Fee Structure

Proposed fees (Euro)	IAHR Sponsor
Platinum	20 000
Gold	7 500
Silver	2 500

:: Sponsor Member Application Process

Candidates for sponsor member should be supported by a current IAHR member and acceptance is subject to approval by the IAHR council.

In the first instance, prospective candidates should contact the IAHR Executive Director at chris.george@iahr.org for an initial discussion.

ANNEX

:: IAHR Recognition Mark

All Sponsor members will be provided with an IAHR recognition mark as international public recognition for their contribution to the global scientific research and innovation community. This recognition by IAHR is in the form of an electronic mark which can be used on stationery or a website together with a wooden wall plaque and can also be accompanied by high level IAHR presence at a public award ceremony.

Draft of recognition mark

:: IAHR “Significant Achievement” Certificate

Sponsor members can also nominate their employees for a “Certificate of Significant Achievement” for special technical contributions by an employee. This will be issued by IAHR following submission of a simple nomination form (with some supporting documents) and evaluation by an IAHR Committee. A typical nominee could be an employee of an instrumentation company, software developers or project engineer – whose achievements would not normally be recognized by the scientific research community but is making a significant contribution to the profession³.

³ By issuing a Certificate of Achievement, IAHR does not assume liability or responsibility for the correctness of the product or service

:: IAHR Institute Membership

IAHR Institute Membership for non-profit organisations is available on a three-tier fee structure with fees based on number of staff and the country of location. IAHR uses the World Bank Classification Index to set membership fees. IAHR Lower Fee Rate applies to countries in the “Low” and “Middle” income countries, and the IAHR Higher Fee Rate applies to “High” income countries.

This membership category is designed for universities and research institutes who wish to ensure their staff can access publications and participate in conferences, congresses, workshops and Task Committees.
